SATURDAY. ...JANUARY 17, 1874. LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE TWEED FAMILY AT BELMOST, -- We have in our possession a large number of chapters of the "Mysteries of Paris."

The effect was prodigious. Soon it came to passe that any one who passed by the printing office of the journal in question at three in the morning might see the marvelous sight of a crowd of nondescript persons, livery sevants, commission, in this State, that we can scarcely sort, in this State, that we can scarcely mont, in this State, that we can scarcely credit them, and yet the proofs are conclusive and overwhelming. These young strong a land office business in plundering the unsuspecting inhabitants on the public domain in our county. Having raised quite a respectable sum of money from them, ostensibly designed to swell the offers of the National Tressury, but which the gentlemen alluded to have neglected to pay over, and now refuse to render any account to those who made the contributions. Letters by the dozen have been written to them within the last few months on public business connected with their office, but no response can be obtained. In addition to matters relating to the public business of the Land Office, in which our people are deeply concerned, we have a letter on private business of our own, which, if not attended to at an early day, we now promise them to give to the reading public a full showing of their financial designed as a strong of the street. Such as they came from the prosses as they came from the pross. A story is told of a waiting maid who was found bidding two frances for a copy, and, when twitted for her prodigality, answered proudly, "Madame the Marchiness has pienty of money to pay for her pleasure with;" and then began to deplore the inevitable duty imposed upon her by her august mistress, of coming, rain or shine, to get a copy of the Debats early enough to be laid upon her table, so as togreet her on awaking. On further questioning, however, the grumbling damsel owned that she had already devoured a couple of columns of that morning's seuilleton "Mysteries" by the light of the gas-jet in the street. Suc obtained, it is said, from the "Mysteries de Paris," 160,000 francs, and that for the delicion published in the Debatsonly. Publishers vied with one another for its after publication; and the stage obtained a dramatized version for itself. In Belling and the proof of the production of the proof of private business of our own, which, if not attended to at an early day, we now promise them to give to the reading pub-ic a full showing of their financial de-linquencies as practiced towards the set-tlers on the public lands in this county, son road has now been in operation six or seven years, and yet stages continue to ran between the points named. The railroad from Pieche to Bulionville has only been fully equipped for passenger traffic a few months, but long enough to demonstrate that a stage line can be suc-safully maintained over the same oute. The condition of the two roads are in many respects simi-ar, as they were both built mainly ler, as they were both built mainly for the purpose of carrying ore from mines in elevated localities to mills on courses below. The distance Virginia to Carson is about the same as the distance from Pioche to Bullionville, both being constructed on heavy grades. One is, however, narrow-gauge, and the other broad.

THE SOCIAL LAST NIGHT .- Owing to a press of other engagements we did not attend the sociable given by the B. B. Club at Brown's Hall last night. From those who attended, however, we learn that the affair was, in all respects, unexceptionable. The lady managers of the sociable deserve great credit for the success which has so far crowned their efforts to furnish the means by which the ladies and gentlemen of our town may pass a portion of their evenings in social communion. The hall was well social communion. The hall was well filled, and all present went away hap-pier, if not wiser and better for the even-ing's enjoyment.

yesterday's paper that from some cause us into the air, carry us across the wo been shut down. The stoppage was occasioned by the necessity of putting in a new hoisting rope, which caused a deten-tion of but a few hours. The work is progressing again as usual.

DIFFERENCE IN CLIMATE. - A gentleman who came up from the valley below Bullionville yesterday, reports that while heavy masses of clouds hung on the moutains in the direction of Pioche, the sky was clear and the sun shone brightly in the valleys to the southward.

EUGENE SUE'S "MYSTERIES OF

[From London Society.] In the Debats—a journal of high standing and style—came to light the first fruits of the night-shade growths indigenious to the social caverns to which Sue had wormed his way. There appeared in feuilleton form the opening chapters of the "Mysteries of Paris." The effect was pradictors. See its 18 of the production of a dramatized version for itself. In Belgium a medal was struck in honor of Sue, and subscriptious came pouring in so fast that in a few days the cost of the so fast that in a few days the cost of the medal was far exceeded, and the balance was employed in the getting up of a magnificent edition of the "Wandering Jew." which was distributed gratis among the people. With his French publisher, connecting towns, where stages persistently refuse to be driven off the routes by railroad cars. The Virginia and Carson road has now been in operation six

AN INTERESTING DISCOVERY.-A brief An INTERESTING DISCOVERT.—A brief but interesting account of a discovery in Egypt is published in the "Proceedings," of the Society of Antiquarien. An Englishman traveling on the skirts of Siani noticed small blue stones lying in the beds of dried-up torrents, and brought a few to England, where he learned that they were torquoises of good quality. He went back to Egypt, made further researches, built a house at the innetion of searches, built a house at the junction of three valleys, and aided by friendly na-tives whom he took into his service, he discovered the torquoise mines formerly worked by the ancient Egyptians, to-gether with some of their tools, and the gether with some of their tools, and the places where they ground and polished the stones. So now torquoises are dug from those old rocks and sent to England. Ancient iron-works have also been discovered with huge heaps of slag piled around them. A specimen of this slag on being tested was found to contain 53 per cent. of iron, which favors the supposition that it would pay to smelt the whole mass over again. To protect these valuable deposits, the Pharaohs built fortifications and a barrack and a temple for the troops, relies of which still remain.

WENDELL PHILLIPS ON THE SAXON. -In a lecture in Boston the other evening, Wendell Phillips is reported to have said: pier, if not wiser and better for the evening's enjoyment.

Not'Flourishino.—The legitimate drama, or in fact any other kind of theatrical performance does not seem to flourish in the atmosphere of Pioche about these days. This condition of affairs is said to be the result of a limited supply of bullion in the local market. All that will be changed, however, when we strike it on the lower levels, as we confidently expect to in a very short time.

Yesterdax was one of the gloomyest YESTERDAY was one of the gloomyest days we ever remember to have seen in the mountains of Nevada. All day long dieuse masses of vapor overhung the city, with occasional sprinkles of rain. Rheumatic and chronic ailments of every kind flourish and grow rank in such atmospheric conditions as have prevailed for some days past hereabouts.

Nor Shut Down.—We mentioned in inknown to us the Bowery mine had and absolutely make man the lord, without a movement of creation.
